SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

DISTRICT No. 1. Summer and Winter School under the instruction of ELIZA A. HARDY. This is one of the largest schools in town, and the teacher, being inexperienced, did not succeed as well as could have been desired. Disorder and confusion prevailed in the school-room, to the exclusion, in a great measure, of study and attention; consequently the improvement was limited. The scholars in this district are very irregular in their attendance; so much so, that for the Winter term of 14 weeks there was a loss to the school on account of absence equal to 12 scholars for the whole term. No teacher can make any school, under such circumstances, what it should be.

DISTRICT No. 2. Summer Term—ABBY A. WHITAKER, Teacher. This school was small—only five scholars. The instruction was thorough and the scholars made good progress in their studies.

Winter School just commenced in charge of FRANCIS A. GORDON. This school appears extremely well under its present instructor. The scholars are very orderly and attentive, and the teacher appears to be perfectly at home in the school-room.

DISTRICT No. 3. Summer Term—SARAH P. COGSWELL, Teacher. Most of the pupils have made commendable progress in their studies. This school, in common with some others, labors under the disadvantage of not having an advanced class of scholars, who might, by their influence, excite a general interest in the school. The teacher is very much at home in her work, is not confined to text books, has labored faithfully and with success.

Winter Term—ROBERT D. RICE, Teacher. The committee noticed with pleasure great promptness and accuracy in the recitations. Efforts on the part of the teacher to advance the several classes in their respective studies have been rewarded with success. Principles have been so illustrated that the pupil could hardly fail not only to receive, but to retain the idea.

DISTRICT No. 4. Summer School—EMELINE M. COLBY, Teacher. Miss C. succeeded very well with this school. Good order and diligence prevailed, and the scholars made commendable improvement. Miss Colby also had charge of the Winter School. The school appeared well at the close, but its condition hardly met the expectations of the Committee. Circumstances for which the teacher is not responsible contributed to impair the usefulness of this term of the school. This school ranks with the most advanced in town. The scholars excel in reading and grammar.

DISTRICT No. 5. Summer Term—ANSTISS S. KIMBALL, Teacher. We have seldom visited a school where everything was carried forward with such perfect order. Great pains were taken in the rhetorical exercises to secure accuracy in the enunciation of letters and words. Every element of sound was brought distinctly out. The teacher who labors successfully at this point, as has been done in the present instance, is worthy of much commendation. Great interest has been added to the school by daily exercises in singing. We also noticed with much pleasure that the pupils had committed, among other important moral lessons, the Ten Commandments.

Winter Term—EDMUND S. HOYT, Teacher. The school has been thoroughly drilled on the elements of language. We see not what more could have been done for the class in grammar than has been done. The same is true of the several classes in reading, and in short of all the branches to which the school have given their attention.

DISTRICT No. 6. One Term—FRANCIS A. GORDON, Teacher. A good school and well taught. The teacher spared no pains to interest his pupils and make them thorough in all their studies.

DISTRICT No. 7. Summer Term—SUSAN C. EASTMAN, Teacher. The pupils generally were interested in their studies. Circumstances beyond the teacher's control interfered somewhat with the highest interests of the school, yet her patient and persevering efforts secured very satisfactory results.

Winter Term—CHARLES H. DARLING, Teacher. An unusually large number of advanced scholars in this school have added much to its interest. The teacher, from a previous acquaintance with his pupils, could enter at once upon the work of giving instruction; this he did with very happy success. Most of the recitations gave evidence of patient and persevering study. The school was under good discipline. Whispering was nearly banished from the school-room, except among the very small children.

DISTRICT No. 8. Summer and Winter School in charge of P. C. SCOTT. Miss Scott possesses in a high degree the qualifications desirable in school teachers, all of which were successfully applied in the management of this school. She seems to have been most faithful and assiduous in the discharge of her duties, sparing neither labor nor pains for the benefit of her school. Her instruction was thorough, and the improvement of the scholars in the various branches was very satisfactory.

DISTRICT No. 9. Summer and Winter Terms—LIVONIA SMITH, Teacher. This school has enjoyed the labors of a teacher of much experience, and under her judicious and well directed efforts the pupils have received much valuable instruction. During the winter term of two and one third weeks, there was but one pupil. The question is one of some interest to the town what they will do with District No. 9.

DISTRICT No. 10. Summer Term—JENNETTE CLARK, Teacher. The Committee were highly pleased with the appearance of this school. The school-room was kept very neat, the scholars were very quiet and studious, and order and method were apparent in every arrangement of the school.

Winter Term—Also taught by Jennette Clark. What is said above is eminently true of this term. Miss C. is a successful teacher.

DISTRICT No. 11. Summer Term—BERMINA POLLARD, Teacher. Miss P. is young and without experience. In this, her first attempt, she succeeded very well. To an unusual degree she excited an interest in the younger children, and taught them with happy success. She has the elements of a good teacher.

Winter Term—HIRAM RICE, Teacher. Mr. Rice has fully sustained his reputation as a teacher, in this school. He always the scepter of love, and his pupils cheerfully bow. They enjoy a degree of freedom in expressing their views, rarely combined with such perfect subordination. The text books have been thoroughly studied. We might specify Arithmetic, written and mental; Reading, also, to which much attention has been given and with happy success; distinctness of utterance was particularly noticeable. A class of none have studied Book Keeping with a great degree of interest and profit. The work of the several classes in spelling has been unparalleled.

DISTRICT No. 12. Summer Term—P. C. SCOTT, Teacher. This term has been a fortunate one for this school district, and the labors of the teacher have been crowned with the most abundant success. The examination at the close showed conclusively not only that the pupils had been thoroughly and systematically drilled, but that the teacher had been cheerfully seconded in her efforts on the part of her pupils. Unusual advancement was manifested by all the scholars connected with the school.

DISTRICT No. 13. Summer and Winter Terms—BARBARA W. WOODS, Teacher. Miss W. enjoyed the utmost confidence of her pupils, and labored among them with better success than last year. The school appeared unusually well at the close of the Winter term.

The Committee are happy to report that most of the schools have enjoyed unusual prosperity during the year. It has given them great satisfaction as they have visited the schools from time to time, to witness so much deference shown the teachers by their pupils.

It would afford us pleasure to refer particularly, to some branches of study in which an unusual interest has been excited. We will specify but two, and these among the most important, we refer to Reading and Spelling. The chairman of your committee may be permitted to refer to the school in district No. 11, where the interest in spelling has excelled anything he ever before witnessed; and we would earnestly recommend that the same system of spelling be thoroughly adopted in all the school. We believe it to be entirely impossible to teach orthography so successfully in the ordinary way.

In regard to reading, that the interest which now exists may not be lost but rather deepened, we would earnestly recommend to parents and guardians, that they place interesting and useful books in the hands of their children. We believe this to be the most effectual way of securing to them the art of reading well; and this will at the same time give them much valuable instruction.

The brief visit of our County Commissioner, added much to the interest of our schools the past winter. These visits, though short, could not well be dispensed with. It will be perceived by the preceding report that most of our schools, the past year, have been taught by Females. We consider it a wise measure to employ Female Teachers so far as it can be done without sacrificing the best interests of the school. By reference to the Table of statistics it will be seen that several of our most important winter schools have been placed under the instruction of such teachers. Some of these have been brought to a successful issue by the superior skill of their teachers. While in others, the insubordination of a few of the older pupils, has very much weakened the power of the teacher, and marred the happiness of the school. We deem it incumbent on those districts which employ Females to teach their winter schools, to see that the larger scholars in these schools, cheerfully submit to all the reasonable requirements of the teacher. It is hardly to be expected that a young lady will measure her strength with that of a full grown youth. It is in the power of the latter, then, to tease the teacher in a thousand ways, to make her life a burden and her labors productive of very little good. It is hardly proper to require a female teacher to take care of young men, but if they are found in her school, her province is to teach them. We think that if females are employed to teach our largest winter schools, special pains should be taken to secure the services of such as have all the requisite qualifications.
